

SENATORIAL.

There will soon be an election in this State at which members of the Legislature will be chosen, and upon their political complexion will depend whether the Legislature shall choose a Republican or Democrat for the U. S. Senate. The Republicans of Nevada owe it to their country, their party and themselves, to elect a Senator from their ranks. Several gentlemen are understood to be willing to serve the people, and some members of the party are anxious that one of the candidates shall be selected to make the fight. In the selection of a United States Senator the Republican voters should not only be consulted but they have the right to name the man, and the JOURNAL suggests that some plan be devised by which they can indicate their preference. It would not be out of place for the State Central Committee to call for such an expression of opinion at the time delegates to the State Convention are elected, and the gentleman receiving a plurality of the votes might safely be entrusted with the leadership of the Fall campaign, deserving and receiving the vote of every Republican, and of all others who would like to see a Nevada man represent Nevada in the United States Senate.

We are to be favored with a heavenly exhibition this year of two comets, and they are approaching the earth at a tremendous rate and promise to be objects of great brilliancy. Prof. Newton, of the Yale observatory, thinks that about May 1st, they will show well in the northwestern sky. One of them will come very near the earth—within a distance of only 15,000,000 miles, or about half the distance of the planet Venus. Should both comets be visible at the same time it will be an unusual occurrence.

The New York 'Times' Washington special of April 19th says: Yesterday, for the first time since his prostration, the President saw Secretary Manning, and was allowed to converse with him. Manning is feeling better. He has almost entirely recovered the use of his leg, and his arm is so much better that he can raise it to his head. The President is disposed to be confident now that Manning may, after all, be able, when he has had a few months' rest, to take his place as head of the Treasury Department.

The sub-Committee on Pacific Railroads of the House conferred Monday with Moorefield Storey, of Boston, and ex-Senator McDonald, counsel for the Union Pacific Railroad, relative to an extension of time of the bonded indebtedness. A report will be made to the full committee favoring such an extension for either company. The exact time for which the extension shall run has not yet been decided upon.

The political indictments against ex-Surveyor General Royal A. Johnson and ex-Deputy Lewis Wolfley, charged with violating the Civil Service Act in contributing for campaign purposes, were not prosecuted in the United States Court at Tucson, A. T., Monday.

Samuel R. Miller, of Davenport, Iowa, a leading Republican, has been appointed Consul to Leipzig, Saxony. This is the same Mr. Riley, politically, who keeps the hotel, or a relative. At any rate, he is doing well.

Senator Foley, of Eureka, thinks the Republicans should "concentrate" upon Hon. Thos. Wren for the Senate.

Zach Montgomery has been confirmed as Assistant Attorney General.

QUEER REFORM.

Influence of Capital in Shaping the New Tariff Bill.

New York, April 19.—The Tribune's Washington special says: I see the hybrid Tariff bill was reported by the Ways and Means Committee last week there has been lively speculation among the members of the House as to the reasons which impelled the majority to strike iron ore, coal, etc., from the free list, and instead to propose to cripple the wool-growing industry. A man who has given this matter much attention declares that he has solved the mystery. To the Tribune correspondent to-day he said: "The change was brought about through the influence of the Democratic coal and iron kings. Of the total production of iron ore, some 700,000 tons a year, about one-fourth comes from the mines of men whose combined fortunes will probably aggregate $100,000,000. These great capitalists are capable of yielding tremendous political influence upon the Administration and the Democratic majority in the House. That influence it was which gave Cleveland the votes of New York and Pennsylvania in the Democratic National Convention. It was all exerted to save iron ore and coal from the destructive hand of Morrison and his followers, and it was potential enough to command the silence if not the assent of Abram Hewitt. Smith M. Weed, who represented the capitalists, did not appear in person before the Ways and Means Committee, but he sent his personal representative, A. B. Waldo. Weed is an intimate personal and political friend of Samuel J. Tilden, and the latter is largely interested in the iron ore industry. Randall, of course, did all he could quietly to assist the Democratic iron and coal kings. Morrison, Hewitt and all other great reformers of the Ways and Means Committee yielded, and the result is the preservation of the duty on iron ore and coal, while wool, in the production of which at least 15,000,000 American people are interested, directly, or indirectly, is placed on the free list."

Arthur's Critical State.

The World Tuesday morning says ex-President Arthur is very sick. It may not be beyond the simple truth to say that his case is hopeless. It certainly is safe to say that many of his most intimate friends never expect to see him out of his house alive again. There seems to be little reason to doubt that the seat of Arthur's trouble is in the kidneys instead of the liver. His friends say he is suffering either from Bright's disease or diabetes, the weight of information being on the side of the former malady.

Democratic Economy.

The Tribune's Washington special says: Two months ago the Administration asked Congress for an appropriation of $3,000,000 to meet urgent deficiencies. Now supplemental estimates have been sent in for nearly $70,000 more in deficiencies, and there are still over two months of the fiscal year remaining in which other deficiencies may be discovered.

From a memorandum prepared by one of the Civil Service Commissioners it appears that, exclusive of the army and navy appointments, 4,043 appointments are subject to confirmation by the Senate. Of these, there are under the Department of State, 803; Treasury, 363; Interior, 364; Postoffice Department, 2,252; and Department of Justice, 261. The whole number of civil employees under the Government is about 110,000, of which 52,632 are Postmasters. The total number of places subject to civil service examination is 15,000, of which 6,000 are in the postal service and 3,000 in the custom service. It will be seen by this that the civil service law does not cover one seventh of the Government employees, and for this reason the friends of the law say they are unable to account for the great and evidently increasing clamor against it.

The pursuit of Geronimo is still kept up, but nothing definite seems to be known of his whereabouts.

THE TARIFF BILL.

The President's Views—The Fight Waxing Hotter and Hotter.

A Washington dispatch to the Post says the tariff fight is getting hotter and hotter, and both sides are massing their forces for a grand contest of strength which will come up when the motion is made to strike out the enacting clause of the bill. The recent intimation from the White House, that the President would like to see some action taken to secure tariff reform will doubtless have some effect upon the fate of the measure. Representative McAdoo, of New Jersey, a warm and close friend of Randall, in talking Tuesday as to whether the President had made any progress in securing converts for the bill, said that the situation was still in a nebulous condition, but perhaps a Postmaster or so thrown in the balance might have additional weight.

"Has he changed his policy in regard to listening to advice from other people?"

"It seems so. I advised him to take advice from Congressmen, because they were sent here to represent the people, and were better prepared to understand the wants of certain localities. I think he has come to this conclusion, too."

The Republicans, with the exception of perhaps four or five, will vote solidly against the bill. Messrs. Nelson, Wakeman, Haight and White, all of Minnesota, who voted for the other bill, are here, and most probably will do so again. On the other hand, the following shows a list of Democrats who are with the Republicans, and will give them a majority: The entire Ohio delegation, including eleven Democrats, six out of eight Democrats in the Pennsylvania delegation, the exceptions being Swope and Scott, three from New Jersey, seven from New York, including Spriggs and Merriman, Findlay of Maryland, Snyder of West Virginia, Gay of Louisiana, and Henley of California. This makes thirty-one, and there is a probability of one more from each of the following States: West Virginia, Louisiana and Virginia.

Work for Congress.

The work of the Senate is already in advance of that of the House, but as there is so much before it two committees representing the Democratic and Republican sides, have had a conference and agreed upon the order in which bills are to be taken up. The committee decided to recommend that Mondays be devoted to the executive calendar, and that for the present executive sessions to be held every day until the executive business reported from the Foreign Affairs Committee is disposed of. Private bills against which there is no objection are to be taken up in the morning hour. The appropriation bills are to have precedence at other times. No agreement was reached as to when the resolution relating to open executive session is to be voted upon. There is a disposition shown among the opponents of this measure to try and stifle debate upon it, and get it out of the way without an open vote, but General Logan and Senator Platt, who are receiving many letters from all over the country approving their course in this matter, declare that they hope to compel its opponents to express their reasons in public for voting against it.

The Ogden News says:

A Salt Lake Tribune special from Washington reports that Hon. George W. Cassidy, of Nevada, is in that city neglecting his duties as National Bank Examiner and figuring for the Democratic nomination for Representative from Nevada. We do not believe the first assertion. Mr. Cassidy is not one to neglect his official duties. As to the latter assertion, we don't believe that the gentleman would need to make any efforts to secure the nomination, should he desire it. He is popular in his own party, is well liked by his political opponents in Nevada, and as a Representative in Congress was true to the interests of his constituents and faithful to every trust reposed in him. Nevada has never had a better Representative than George W. Cassidy.

A prominent Republican was asked by a Eureka Sentinel reporter what he thought of the Senatorial outlook at the coming contest. He remarked: "It is most confusing. I am unable to forecast the result. Things are as yet too mixed. I am a Wren man myself."

SENATOR FAIR IN HIS OWN CAMP.

The Three Wings of the Democracy.

The Carson Free Lance has diagnosed the Senatorial situation, from the Democratic standpoint, and reports as follows: There are three wings of the Nevada Democracy, the Adams wing, the Canavan wing and the Chiv. wing. In the appointment of George Merrill, Major Garrard and Edmund James through Fair's influence to Federal offices the Adams wing has been well provided for. Canavan being dead his former followers, in the opinion of Fair, are political orphans without political influence. The Irish, especially of Storey county, feel this treatment keenly. The masses of Irish in this State are Catholics, and why should they expect anything from Fair? While Fair is an Irishman he is extremely Protestant in his views; he is from the north of Ireland, an Orangeman who never has a kind word to say of his Catholic brethren. It is true that the Catholics supported him in the last election, but that was because his wife was a devoted Catholic. As a devout friend of the church its members were solicitors for her welfare, not for his. His treatment of her when, soon after his election, she went to Washington the causes leading to the divorce, these and many other things have still further estranged this Catholic element from Fair.

But what has he done for the so-called Chiv. element? When and to what position has there been appointed a friend of Col. Ellis, Col. Stone, W. E. F. Deal or Judge Rives? One of the most prominent politicians of Storey County said to the writer a few days ago that the Chiv. of Storey would knife Fair to death if they should have a chance. This element in Ormsby led by Col. Ellis is as bitter as gall. In Elko, Humboldt, Esmeralda and Washoe we heard expressed the same bitter sentiment.

The only wing of the Democracy that is composed of fighting friends for Fair is the Adams wing. While Fair and Cassidy have been enemies these opposing elements are now negotiating under a flag of truce. Fair concedes that Cassidy shall be the nominee for Congress, in return for which of course Cassidy will support Fair. The Democratic Cavalcade composed wholly of the Adams wing, however, now seem well organized and is moving on towards the yet unoccupied trenches of the Republican breast-work. As far as known this staff consists of Fair for the Senate, Adams for Governor, Cassidy for Congress, Bellnap for Supreme Judge, and various other prospective officers whose commissions have not yet been issued by Commander-in-Chief Fair.

JUDGMENT.

The Aurora Star says:

Race antagonism, labor and capital contests, partisan warfare, sectional strife, polygamy, assumptive bigotry and intolerance, together with the vices of the period, are the problems pressing upon this age and generation for solution.

Perception and reason are given to man to enlighten and guide in the pursuit, attainment, and use of knowledge.

The organs and faculties of the body and mind are adapted to enable man to see, consider, and understand. By the culture and use of these organs and faculties men become intellectually great—perhaps through fortuitous circumstances they may attain positions in comparison with which others may be low. Then, it sometimes happens that the truly great are envied by the envious; traduced by the jealous; and vilified by the vile. But should they, though intellectually great, lack the power of discrimination, discretion, and prudence, or moral principle, to enable them to discern the right and wrong; the good and evil; and act accordingly, and then it may be said of such, as of men in olden times: "Great men are not always wise; neither do the aged understand judgment." Sometimes great characters are marred by great prejudice, selfishness, envy, or hatred. No age or people can be said to be entirely free from some of these drawbacks. They enter into the social, civil, and financial relations of life and business, and darken and befoul the political world.

Wisdom is what is needed just now, and true statecraft to comprehend the problems of the age; to adjust the diversities and control the antagonisms on just principles.

Is there wisdom in the various departments of our Government to originate, enact, determine, and execute just laws without prejudice? Is there wisdom among the people to confer and enjoy reciprocal privileges under the practical application of the golden-rule? "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you do ye even so to them." If so, then let the wisdom of the wise and good be crystallized by our statesmen into laws adapted to harmonize, adjust, and control the discordant elements now convulsing the Nation.

Some of the politicians say that Congressman Woodburn will not be a candidate for reelection to Congress, but will be an aspirant for the Supreme Bench this Fall.

NEVADA POLITICS.

The Salt Lake Democrat speculates: on the political outlook in this State as follows:

The indications are favorable for a booming campaign next Fall in our neighboring State of Nevada. Hon. R. Daggett has returned to the State and it is reported that he has abandoned his Senatorial aspirations and will assume editorial charge of the Virginia Enterprise. That means that he is committed to the interests of W. M. Stewart, as the proprietors of that paper are among the latter's most prominent backers. The arrangement by which Mr. Daggett is induced to withdraw is unknown, but it was doubtless satisfactory to him as well as to all others concerned. Mr. Stewart will also be supported by the Central Pacific as well as by other railroad companies generally throughout the State. He is not, however, without opposition in his own party. C. C. Fowling, of Washoe, is a pronounced and active candidate, and is liable to become exceedingly troublesome before the closing of the campaign. He is active and persevering, and has already accumulated considerable strength in the Western portion of the State, and is almost certain to secure a unanimous Legislative delegation from his own county. Ex-Congressman Wren is also in the field and announces his intention of remaining there until the close of the Republican caucus, unless his party is snuffed under at the election. His is a strongly Republican county and he will doubtless secure the entire delegation, and also other representatives in the Eastern part of the State. The probabilities are, however, if the Republicans carry the Legislature, that Mr. Stewart will have votes enough to insure his nomination and consequently his election. The Democrats will doubtless unite upon Senator Fair, who is generally understood to be a candidate for reelection. He is the only Democrat, apparently, who has a chance for election, and while there are prominent members of his party who would doubtless prefer some other man, it is conceded that his candidacy will greatly enhance the chances of success for the candidates on the Democratic State and county tickets. He has, moreover, made a good general and political record in the Senate, and has been particularly industrious and active concerning the local interests of his State. Present appearances indicate the re-nomination of J. W. Adams, the present incumbent, for Governor. He is exceedingly popular and has always polled a heavy vote outside of his party. Hon. George W. Cassidy will doubtless be nominated for Congress. Although defeated for a variety of causes at the last election, they will not exist this year and he will in all probability be elected by a handsome majority. Judge C. H. Bellnap is not likely to have any opposition for the nomination for Supreme Judge. He is the strongest man for the position in his party and will as heretofore carry the solid Democratic vote besides receiving considerable support from the other side. The present outlook is certainly most favorable for a sweeping Democratic victory.

Arrangements have been made by which the time schedule of the Central and Southern Pacific Railways will be regulated by the clock in the Lick Observatory on Mount Hamilton, near San Jose. If the Observatory keeps meridian time it will necessitate abandonment of the standard time adopted two years ago, the meridian from which that time is taken being farther east.

A Good Snowing.—Secretary Stoddard has received diplomas this morning for the first degree of merit and two for second degree. The first merit was Vanderer Pippin, Michigan Red, Newton Pippin, Lady apple, Greening, Pride of Washoe, Esopbus Spitzenburg, Yellow Bellflower and the best exhibit of dried fruit. The second degree was for the best display of apples and for 70 varieties of apples. The fruit was all entered by Mr. Stoddard for the State Agricultural Society. The diplomas will be framed for the Pavilion.
A Splendid Book.—Admiral David Porter has written a magnificent history of the Naval portion of the War of the Rebellion. It is worthy of its distinguished author, and will be as authoritative historically as is Grant's Memoirs. Numbers of people are subscribing.

COMSTOCK UNDERGROUND FORESTS.—The Virginia Chronicle says no person unfamiliar with mining on a large scale can form an adequate idea of the amount of lumber daily consumed in timbering on the Comstock. The interior of the Con. Virginia hoisting works resembles a lumber yard in the morning before the timbers are sent below. At least 10,000 feet are piled around the shaft ready framed for lowering. The present daily consumption of lumber used in timbering in the various mines on the lode exceeds 100,000 feet, and requires the destruction annually of a small forest for that purpose alone, to say nothing of the vast amount consumed for fuel in driving hoist and pumping engines. It is estimated that the trees required to furnish the lumber sent into the bowels of the earth to be used in timbering in the various mines on the Comstock lode would form an underground forest 10 miles square.

COL. SHAW'S LECTURE TOUR.—Col. Shaw, who has prepared a lecture on the campaign of the civil war, will be accompanied on his Nevada tour by the Virginia City Orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Wm. Weston, late of the First U. S. Artillery band. Prof. Cara is arranging a medley of war melodies, which will be quite an attractive feature of the entertainment, and in the smaller towns a dance will follow the lecture. Col. Shaw's war map, the largest ever exhibited in any public hall, is now being painted expressly for his use, and will prove quite an aid to the audience in enabling him to trace the paths of the various armies in their movements on the vast theater of operations. Col. Shaw will deliver his first lecture in Reno and will then appear in Carson, Virginia, Dayton, Bodie, Austin, Winnemucca, Eureka and other towns.

JUST WHAT MINERS WANT!—Miners, attorneys, and business men will be glad to know that Copp's Mining Code has been revised and brought down to March, 1886. It carefully condenses the mining decisions of the courts and the land department, gives all the late Land Office instructions and circulars, the several United States mining statutes in full, and all the local mining laws, as promulgated, of the Western States and Territories, together with the forms for location notice, miner's lien, notice to delinquent co-owners, application for patent, adverse claim, lease, deed, &c. It is the latest, cheapest, and only reliable miner's guide now before the public. Send for a copy. Price 50 cents.

THE COMPILED LAWS.—The JOURNAL acknowledges with thanks the receipt, from J. M. Dormer, Secretary of State, of a copy of the new compilation of the General Statutes of Nevada, as compiled by Hon. David E. Bailey and J. D. Hammond, under the Act passed by the last Legislature. It is a handsome, well printed and substantially bound single volume of 1,311 pages. The able gentlemen mentioned performed their duty conscientiously and well, and the printing and binding reflect great credit upon both the printer and the binder. It is an extremely handy book to have around for reference as to the legal and governmental affairs of the State.

AGRICULTURAL.—The Directors of the Lyon County Agricultural Association held a meeting at Dayton lately to look over its financial affairs, get up a constitution and by-laws and perfect its organization, looking ahead to the coming season, and making preparations for a county fair. The people of that section recognize the utility of such fairs every year.

STATE PRISON.—The Free Lance says Warden Bell has just completed a fine stone wall to the east of the Prison grounds. It is a great improvement over the plank fence which formerly stood in that place. Another improvement is the lowering of the wall in front of the prison. This was a change much to be desired.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY FOR MAY.—"Socialistic Movements in England and the United States," which opens the May number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly, is a most timely and well written article. It reviews all the ideal schemes put forward to bring about a state where all shall have equal enjoyment with the least possible labor, where there shall be no wealth, no crime. The article on "Poetic Dancing" discourses of the ballet and its royal founder, King Louis XIV. William Elliot Griffith takes a stroll through old Yeddo, and interests us in old Japanese life. "The Fruit-ships at New York" will surprise many who have little idea of the enormous value and variety of foreign fruits that are brought every year to this one port, which in this respect has no rival on earth. "The American Goldsmith," by Walter Edgar McCann, brings the reader to know and appreciate one of the most enduring of American poems "The Old Oaken Bucket." "Weimar-on-the-Ill" tells very entertainingly of the city associated with Goethe, Schiller, Herder, Wieland and Liszt. Mr. Holder treats of the "Electricians of the Sea," the various kinds of fish to which nature has given electricity as a defense and a power. "The Etna of the Antilles" describes our nearest volcano, as "Stonehenge and the Druids" recalls the long past. The stories by Florence Marryat, Charles L. Hildreth, W. H. Watt, Elinor Brooke and others, are all capital and the minor articles full of interest.

MASONIC NOTICE.—There will be a called communication of Reno Lodge, No. 13, F. & A. M. held at Masonic Hall, Reno, Nevada, this evening, April 22, 1886, for work in the second degree. By order of the Worshipful Master.
S. M. JAMISON, Sec'y.

ANTI-CHINESE MEETING.—Members of the Anti-Chinese League of Washoe county are notified that a special meeting will be held at Armory Hall next Saturday night, the 24th instant. A full attendance is desired, as matters of unusual importance will be considered.

BLAINE AND THURMAN.
The San Francisco Call may have guessed the ticket for 1888. Here is what it says:

The evidences accumulate every day that a genuine movement has been started for Blaine which has for its object the election of the "Plumed Knight" to succeed President Cleveland. From various portions of the country come almost daily dispatches similar in tone to that of a day or two ago, in which ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, is said to have declared that every man of brains in that State is for Blaine for President in 1888. It is considered by the friends of "the man from Maine" that the manner in which the Mugwumps have been criticised, and the absurdity of the policy which they mapped out for their own guidance, added to the knowledge of how much their baleful influence on President Cleveland's policy has displeased the rank and file of the Democracy, has caused a reaction to set in which will cause the country to clamor for a strong and positive man next time, one in whose Republicanism or Democracy there will not be the faintest trace of Mugwump leaven; a man of emphatic and vigorous ideas, who will not hesitate to carry out a policy which shall be acceptable to his party and not truckle to an element in the camp of an enemy, the disaffection of which to their own leaders made it possible for the opposing side to win; a man who shall first take care of his own party, and who will recognize the fact that if there are to be rewards they should be bestowed on those of his own political faith who did their best to elect him. Such a man they claim Blaine to be. In discussing the matter they accord the same qualities to Thurman, or rather declare that he comes nearer filling the bill on the Democratic side than any other man. They say, also, that they fear Thurman's possible candidacy more than that of any other Democrat. Despite his emphatic statements that he shall not take an active part in politics again a movement has begun for Thurman; not so strong yet as the one for Blaine, but still giving evidences of springing into vigorous life. As between these two men, politics aside, the Pacific Coast would welcome either to the Presidential chair before any others which their parties could present. No men with Presidential aspirations or possibilities are more in sympathy with our people on the great questions which are before them for solution or adjustment than Blaine and Thurman, and if the country could find these names heading the Republican and Democratic tickets in 1888, it would feel assured that, whichever might be elected, a President would enter the White House who would be in sympathy with the masses of the people, and who would give the country the kind of an administration it wants, but has not had for years.
